

POST, GATTY ON LAST LEG OF FLIGHT

LEGISLATURE WILL ADJOURN

HOME FRIENDS HOPE IMPROVEMENT FUND MAY GAIN APPROVAL

Chance Is Doubtful, However; Think Bills Will Be Signed

COLUMBUS, O., July 1.—Final legislative action on the cigarette tax measure and the big biennial appropriation bill will feature the final session of the Ohio legislature here this afternoon.

Presiding officers of the senate and house will attach their signatures to these bills and other measures which went through both legislative branches just prior to the recess of the solons last week.

The measures then will go to Governor George White, subject to gubernatorial approval or rejection.

At the close of today's sessions, which were to start at 1:30 p. m., the solons will adjourn sine die.

Unless called back, in special session, by the governor, there will be no more legislative action prior to the first Monday in January, 1933, when the next regular session opens.

Only a handful of house members were expected to attend the perfunctory session.

In the senate, however, a near-normal attendance was anticipated in view of the possibility that Governor White might sign the joint taxation committee's bill, providing for enlarging the state tax commission from three to four members, and ask the senate to confirm his selection of the new member of the commission.

Fred M. Wildermuth, of Shelby County, and John R. Cassidy, of Cleveland, former member of the state tax commission and state house clerk, have been mentioned for this position which pays $5,000 a year.

In the event that the governor promptly signed the big appropriation bill, it was indicated legislators might receive their second-year pay check, amounting to $1,000 each, today.

A number of legislators, particularly house members, were still hopeful today that the legislature would include in the big appropriation bill an adequate sum for enlarging facilities at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, at Xenia.

Legislative leaders, however, appeared to feel that no further legislative action will be forthcoming aside from the signing of the measure by the presiding officers of the senate and house.

On the eve of the recess last week, a fighting minority in the house opposed endorsement of the big bill until it could be amended so as to take care of the situation at the Xenia home.

While Speaker Arthur Hamilton was announcing acceptance by the house of the joint conference committee's report favoring passage of the bill, Representative Charles Johnston, D., of Columbus, was on his feet in a futile effort to change his vote from "yes" to "no."

The report was accepted by the bare affirmative majority vote of 65. Had Justus been able to change his vote, the committee's report would have been rejected and the bill sent back to the committee for further deliberation.

The remote possibility existed today that the fighting house members might return this afternoon in sufficient force to compel the house to rescind its approval of the appropriation bill and throw it again into the hands of the conferees.

WOMAN DROWNED ON SWIMMING PARTY

COLUMBUS, O., July 1.—While swimming with two men and another woman in Big Walnut Creek, near here, Mrs. Ella Thompson, 34, was drowned early today, according to police.

Authorities declared Mrs. Thompson drowned in a 10-foot hole in the creek while attending an early morning bathing party. Her husband, C. B. Thompson, identified the body.

A search for Francis Morse, a Columbus salesman who disappeared after the party, was unsuccessful. His companions believed he slipped into the creek and was drowned.

A taxi driver at a nearby dance hall recovered Mrs. Thompson's body from the water.

SPORTSMAN KILLED WHEN PLANE FALLS

GLENN ARBOR, Mich., July 1.—Investigation was to be closed today into the death of Logan Degen, 29, sportsman, who was killed yesterday when his sea plane crashed from a height of 300 feet.

GRAF ZEPPELIN TO VISIT ICELAND

BENGE MURDER SUSPECT USES RAZOR IN ATTEMPT TO END LIFE

DAYTON, O., July 1.—The unsuccessful attempt of Joseph McReeves, 30, to commit suicide, had thwarted temporarily today the plans of county authorities to further question the Negro prisoner relative to the murder of Thomas P. Bengue and the attack on his wife and daughter.

McReeves slashed his throat with a razor, in his cell yesterday. He was removed to Miami Hospital.

Bengue was killed and members of his family were attacked in their home west of here last June 9.

The prisoner admitted having been on the Bengue property but said he knew nothing about the murder. He said he was under the influence of "canned heat" at the time.

DEMPSEY REFUSES OFFER OF $750,000

RENO, Nev., July 1.—Just what does it all mean? This is the question that all Reno is asking today, and it is not in regard to Max Baer or Bessie Bouncing Uzdun.

It is aimed at Jack Harrison Dempsey, promoter and referee of the July 4 prize fight between Baer and Uzdun, who yesterday declined an offer of $750,000 to resign the ring.

Jack has been doing a lot of training at both Baer's camp and at the Baer's training quarters lately, ostensibly to get in shape for his duties as referee of the twenty-round fight between the two men Saturday.

Dubious Renolites lift an eyebrow when told that Jack will never enter the ring again, and walk away with a lifted shoulder or a sceptical "Oh, yeah?"

But the mauler insists that he has too much to do in promoting a big fight for Reno Labor Day to see any offer to appear anywhere else on that day.

YOUTH CONFESSES STARTING FLAMES

MARYSVILLE, O., July 1.—Aron charges were expected to be filed here today against Lawrence Neibler, Jr., 20, former inmate of the Lancaster Reformatory, following an investigation of a fire at the clubhouse at the Marysville Country Club.

PROHIBITION WILL NEVER BE DIVORCED FROM CHURCH HOLD

Thus McBride Answers Movement To Change Alliance

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The prohibition movement came out of the churches and it never can be divorced from them.

This declaration was made today by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, when asked to comment on the plan of the newly-formed "allied forces for prohibition" to "take prohibition out of the churches."

The Anti-Saloon League, according to McBride, is now engaged in a nationwide campaign of rebuilding state and local dry units along the lines which he says put the 18th amendment in the constitution.

The allied forces, headed by Dan A. Poling of New York, also is undertaking a national campaign with meetings planned in 247 cities, each in a public hall instead of a church.

The allied group also plans local organization.

With the federal government's new fiscal year and a regular addition of 500 new dry agents, starting today, McBride predicted that prohibition enforcement is entering its banner year.

"Prohibition enforcement in the next twelve months will outstrip anything to date," he said. "Capone's downfall and that of his associates is one of the most effective things that has happened."

"Some of the recommendations of the Wickersham commission, including a unified border patrol and the District of Columbia dry law, will be passed by congress next winter, I believe."

"Congress will give Prohibition Director Woodcock and the departments pretty much what they feel they need. There is more encouragement for law enforcement now than for years."

"Prohibition is in prospect of getting the chance it is entitled to," McBride cited the Anti-Saloon League's Ohio plan of campaign.

"Billy" Sunday will join the campaign in that state July 9, he said. A movement has been started to select 100 young people in Ohio to attend the Anti-Saloon League convention here next January, and dry leaders hope to bring at least 1,000 young people here from all parts of the country.

GRAF ENDS HALF OF TRIAL CRUISE

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 1.—The German Graf Zeppelin, carrying twelve passengers on a trial cruise, completed the outward leg of its flight from Friedrichshafen today and started on the return journey to its base.

After cruising over this city and its environs for about two hours, the Graf pointed his nose toward home at 10:15 a. m. Greenwich time (5:15 a. m. Eastern Standard Time).

The next flight on the Graf's schedule is a scientific expedition to the Arctic, set for next month.

Injured in Crash

Attractive Betty Robinson, 1928 women's Olympic sprint champion, who is battling for her life following a crash in an airplane piloted by her cousin at Chicago. They had reached 400 feet when the motor failed and the plane nose-dived to earth. Betty suffered a fractured leg and arm and a possible skull fracture. If Miss Robinson recovers, she may never be able to race again.

FRESH AS DRUMMERS ON BUSINESS TRIP - FLYERS TACKLE JOB

Sleep Refreshes Two; Confident Of Near Success

EDMONTON, Alberta, July 1.—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the two world flyers were as unconcerned as two commercial travelers getting up to catch a train as they started on the final lap of their record-breaking flight.

Refreshed, shaved, bathed and as trim as two knights of the grip setting out for a morning's business call they both declared themselves "in the pink" of condition.

"It's down hill all the way now. Nothing to it," said Gatty, slightly build navigator of the team, as he stood shaving in the bathroom of their suite at 2:45 this morning.

"We'll be in Cleveland in eleven or twelve hours and New York this evening, sure thing," said Post, who was carefully sorting out a new pair of socks.

"Want a good guide for the rest of the trip?" asked a caller. "I've got one," he shot back. "He got us this far and now we are on easy street."

The two flyers had made a wonderful recovery. When they arrived at the hotel at 6 o'clock last night they were dead on their feet. Post fell asleep and rolled off his chair while waiting for the omelette and ordered.

Now they were bright-eyed and taring to go.

"This is duck soup from now on," said Post. "We'll make it."

The Winnie Mae was all ready and when Post and Gatty arrived all they had to do was to step aboard.

Both flyers had their pockets full of telegrams when they arrived at the runway. "Looks like we should take a secretary along," said Post, as he signed for another batch.

WOOD GOES GOOD

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 1.—Sidney B. Wood, American Davis cup tennis star, battled his way into the finals of the Wimbledon lawn tennis championship tournament today by defeating Fred Perry, brawny British giant in a smashing, four-set match.

The score: 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

BRITAIN WILL PUT HOOVER DEBT MORATORIUM IN EFFECT AT ONCE

LONDON, July 1.—Great Britain probably will follow Italy's lead and put the Hoover debt moratorium into effect independently, in case of a rupture of the Franco-American negotiations now going on in Paris, International News Service was informed on reliable authority today.

The general view here is that France is bluffing in the Laval-Mellon negotiations, in an attempt to shift at least a part of her financial responsibility to the United States. British leaders do not believe that the United States will consent to such a shift of responsibility.

If a rupture should come, the British government is in favor of putting the Hoover proposal into effect immediately, without French participation. In such case, as in the case of the Laval-Mellon negotiations, it would become necessary.

FLYERS LEAVE EDMONTON ON NEW YORK HOP

Stop At Cleveland To Re-Fuel; Record Is Within Grasp

EDMONTON, Alberta, July 1.—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty hopped off at 3:39 o'clock (5:39 a. m. Eastern Standard Time) today on the final leg of their whirling dash around the world.

With only 2,000 miles of their planned 15,000-mile flight remaining to be covered, the airmen took off near the Edmonton field this morning just as the first streaks of dawn crossed the sky.

They headed their plane eastward planning to land in New York, the end of the long trail, late this afternoon or tonight. They will probably stop in Cleveland today enroute to New York for fuel.

The American flyers arrived here at 4:37 o'clock (6:37 Columbus time) yesterday afternoon after a jump of 1,450 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, as they rushed their plane in an attempt to fly around the world faster than ever done before. The record, twenty-two days, is now held by the Graf Zeppelin.

The flyers' plane, the Winnie Mae, which had bogged down on the rain-soaked flying field, had been pulled over to a paved highway leading from the field to the heart of this Canadian prairie city and from the pavement the hop was made this morning.

Post, who was at the controls, guided the plane gracefully into the air and gained altitude rapidly. The start was made easily and without a hitch.

Suddenly Post banked the plane and then it roared away eastward and was soon lost to view.

Several hundred persons, who gathered at the field to watch the start of the last day's flying in the mad chase by Post and Gatty in their time-conquering dash, waved goodbye to the Yankee flyers.

Rain, which had been falling for hours, stopped an hour before the Winnie Mae sailed off and the sky was clearing rapidly as the ship took off on the last jump to Roosevelt Field, New York, where the two airmen made their initial hop on June 23.

The ceiling had been down to 500 feet yesterday when the flyers arrived here but had lifted to more than 1500 feet today and a brisk wind was blowing.

Gatty, the navigator on the record-breaking flight, announced just before the start this morning that he would lay a course in a direct line for Cleveland, instead of flying southward by way of Calgary, as he had first considered.

Both Post and Gatty appeared considerably refreshed this morning as they arrived at the airport. They had about eight hours sound sleep in an Edmonton Hotel during the night and said they felt fit and ready for the final spurt to New York.

"We will be in New York tonight some time after dark," said Post, just before he climbed into the Winnie Mae.

"We will stop at Cleveland only long enough to refuel the ship and then we will be away again."

The flyers shook hands with Canadian officials, who accompanied them to the airport, before stepping into their plane, then the motors whirled and the blue and white ship rolled down the highway, lifted gracefully and sailed away on its history-making whirl around the world.

Arriving at this Canadian prairie city, the American flyers had rushed through 13,128 miles of their course in seven days, fourteen hours and forty-one minutes. They had ahead of them a hop of 2,000 miles but even should they fail to complete the final leg in the single day they would beat their allotted time of ten days. Their actual time in the air total three days, twenty-two hours and forty-three minutes.

MAY LEGALIZE ICE DELIVERY SUNDAYS

CINCINNATI, O., July 1.—The extreme hot weather promised today to result in the amending of a sixteen-year-old city ordinance which prevents the delivery of ice on Sundays.

Declaring that many Cincinnati families lack facilities to store ice from Saturday to Monday, Mayor Russell Wilson said he will confer with members of the city council in an attempt to have the law altered.

When passed in 1915, the ordinance sought only to assure the ice drivers union one day off each week. City officials said they would ask that extra help be obtained to permit ice delivery daily.

DRY AGENTS SPOIL RENO'S HOLIDAY

RENO, Nev., July 1.—Wide open Reno which was preparing for an old-fashioned Fourth of July of generously wet dimensions was bone dry today after a series of the most sensational raids in the history of the city.

A flying squadron of dry agents, thirty-six officers from California, and four from Nevada swept through virtually every speakeasy in town and raided some of the fashionable night resorts.

FIGHT DIPHTHERIA

CINCINNATI, O., July 1.—In an effort to "banish diphtheria from Cincinnati," the city board of health here today opened seven stations at which children may be immunized against the disease.

HOME BAND CONCERT PLEASES AUDIENCE AT PARK PAVILION

Hundreds of Xenians thronged to Shawnee Park Tuesday night and under refreshingly cool conditions enjoyed the annual farewell concert presented by the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home Cadet Band under the direction of Bandmaster H. E. Seall.

The concert, lasting for nearly two hours, included a wide range of classical music, old favorites of bygone years, college selections and popular numbers of a more modern era.

Miss Eleanor McDonnell, talented Xenia lyric soprano, accompanied by the band, sang several selections during each half of the concert program.

The band was grouped upon the stage of the park pavilion and the audience, filling the auditorium to capacity, also extended around the immediate vicinity, chairs and benches having been provided for the comfort of the public.

A musical number featuring the cadet bugle corps, composed of ten buglers attired in the lacy-looking white navy garb, was an outstanding novelty on the program.

MOST SUICIDES ARE MEN
PHILADELPHIA.—With men mainly responsible, the "suicide peak" in this city was reached in 1930, according to data compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics. There were 345 suicides, and of these, 280 were men, and eighty-five women. Indications seem to show that women require more potent reasons for suicide than do men, and also portray that the "weaker sex" are less prone to disguise themselves in taking their own lives. The majority of women suicides last year employed gas and a large percentage chose poison, while the male suicides used gas, guns, and ropes, chiefly.

HUSBAND SEEKING DIVORCE IN COURT; OTHER COURT NEWS

Declaring his wife left home May 19, 1928 and never returned, Joseph H. Johnson has filed suit in Common Pleas Court seeking a divorce from Mildred I. Johnson, whom he married April 5, 1923. The plaintiff asks for custody of three minor children, Mary, Howard and Robert, whom he says he has supported since his wife went away. The divorce is sought on grounds of wilful absence from home for more than three years.

BOTH LATE AT WEDDING

LONDON.—Being late for one's wedding may become fashionable if the example of two aristocratic families spreads. Prince Max Karl Joseph Maria zu Hohenlohe-Langenberg, 29, was married to Signorina Luigia Pasquero, 23, at a registrar's office. The bride was twenty minutes late. The bridegroom came half an hour late. They had rushed to England from the continent in order to marry quickly. Prince Max is head of the House of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. The bride is a member of an old Savoy family. They will live at Mentone, where the prince has a villa.

Members of Phoenix Rebecca Lodge, No. 74, will be entertained at a thimble party at the home of Mrs. George Fuller, S. Detroit St., at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Miss Donna Clare Sholey, Jamestown, left Monday for New York where she will begin her second summer's work for her master's degree at Columbia University. She received her bachelor of science degree in music at Miami University in 1927 and has taken special musical training at Wittenberg College, Springfield. She will teach music in the Jamestown, Bowersville and Spring Valley schools the coming term.

Miss Florence K. White, Clifton, is the guest this week of Mr. E. G. McKibben and family, Seaman, O.

Miss Elinor Miller is confined to her home, 204 E. Third St., because of illness.

Miss Veronica Kelbie is confined to her home on W. Second St., suffering from a sprained left ankle and torn ligaments in her leg which she received when she fell down a flight of stairs Tuesday noon.

ANTIOCH STUDENTS TO TAKE CAMPING TRIP TO SEE IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES

A camping trip through industrial America will be the unusual vacations of thirty-eight Antioch College students this summer. Through the cooperation of the Thorne Loomis Foundation of New York City, two large automobiles, each specially equipped as combined bus, tent, dining-car and sleeper, will be used for the trips. Each carries ten men, as well as beds, kitchen and camping utensils, a thirty-gallon water tank, and individual private lockers for each member of the trip. There will be two expeditions from Antioch, the first of twenty men leaving Yellow Springs June 29, and proceeding east, the second twenty leaving August 3 on a trip west.

Paul D. Guernsey, Antioch instructor in physical education, will lead the first expedition, assisted by a junior student, William Bruckman of Denver, Col., who will take complete charge of the second trip.

The plan of both expeditions is to visit famous laboratories and industries, as well as to stop at places of historic and scenic interest along the way. About half the students are freshmen entering college this fall, for whom the trip, according to college officials here, is expected to be a valuable introduction to an understanding of the industrial life of America with which they will come into actual contact when they begin work as cooperative students. The other half of those participating are all older students who have had at least one year at Antioch studying liberal arts and sciences and working in some industry or profession. All will receive industrial credit for the trip.

The first expedition will visit the Ohio cities of Barberton, Akron and Cleveland; thence to Erie, Pa., Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Rochester, Watkins Glen, Syracuse, Endicott, and Binghamton, N. Y.; back again to Pennsylvania, to Nicholson, Wilkes-Barre, Bethlehem, and Easton, and on to New York City. Thence they will proceed to Connecticut, on into Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont, and back through New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Washington, D. C., Pennsylvania, and Ohio. When they return they will have visited seventy-five or eighty outstanding commercial organizations of the country in every field from newspapers, publishing, banks, and department stores, to air docks, mining and steel operations, and radio and electrical companies. Scenic and historic points visited will include Niagara Falls, Watkins Glen, Lake Champlain, Saratoga Springs, the U. S. Military and Naval Academies, and the White House.

The detour begins at Upper Alpha, where traffic is being diverted along the Valley road to the Kemp Road, west to the Grange Hall Road, and thence back to the Dayton Pike, the detour ending at Grange Hall.

SPRING VALLEY

Mrs. Mary Sedler, Mrs. Grace Begler and Mr. Anderson of Cincinnati, spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. L. Bloch.

Miss Martin of New Burlington and Mr. Clifford Davis of Bellbrook, were married Wednesday night by Rev. Merrill Seart at his home here.

The Misses Pittstick of Dayton, Miss Grace Eagle, and Mr. Ray Barnard of Bellbrook returned home Tuesday from a ten day motor trip to New York City and other places of interest in the east.

A car driven by Miss Thier of Cincinnati, skidded off the road and ran onto the porch of the Rachel Marlette property breaking a post and damaging the car. No one was hurt. The house is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey.

Master Charles Marlette of Dayton spent a few days last week, with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Quay and family.

Master Freddie Adeloyette, who had been visiting his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Homer Walton left for his home in Dayton Tuesday. His aunt, Miss Almada Walton accompanied him home for a short visit.

A truck loaded with tires upset on Pike St., near Bellbrook Ave. It turned upside down on the street in front of the Harlan Badgely property. One tire rolled onto the porch of the Perry Weller residence, breaking a post and the screen door. This made the fourth accident in three days in the vicinity of Spring Valley.

YELLOW SPRINGS

The seventy-fifth annual commencement exercises of Antioch College were held on the mound on the college campus Saturday morning. President A. E. Morgan delivered the address. Fifty seniors received their degrees at this time.

The Antioch Players presented three one-act plays on the college steps Friday evening. The plays ran "The Constant Lover," "The Aulls Difficulty" and "The Wonder Hat." Under the direction of Prof. Basil Pillard was much enjoyed by the large crowd present. Proceeding

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.—St. Matthew, xxiii, 39.

THE ORIGIN OF GROWTH

When towns grow, what is the seed of that development? It is not luck or chance, and not wholly favorable situation. It is because of a certain mysterious element of life in that community. It is like the difference between a dead stick and the sprout of a plant which you place in your garden. The two may look alike. But the sprout has a living germ inside and it will grow, while the stick will remain a stick forever.

The seed of that living organism in a community, is the spirit of ambition, enterprise, energy and public spirit, which is determined to make progress. It is a certain resolve in the minds of the people which makes them unwilling to tolerate inferiority, and which induces them to work to achieve gains. A town with that seed of life in it will grow.

DEMANDS FOR LEGISLATION

There were 12,000 bills on the calendar of congress at one recent session. Such figures show what a tremendous lot of problems our lawmakers have to meet. They also indicate that many of our people think their problems could be solved if only they get the government to take hold of them.

Probably a large part of these bills related to some purely personal or local matter. But anyway, there is too much running to the state and national legislatures for help, and too little of depending upon people's own efforts. Most people find after experience that they have to solve their own problems, rather than look to the government.

ABOUT MUSIC

From San Francisco, where the National Federation of Music Clubs is meeting, comes word that America's need is for more people who will sing and play musical instruments for their own entertainment. Somewhat ambiguously, as well, the federation wants more appreciative audiences and fewer professional performers, particularly "prodigies."

It is, indeed, true that even a slight command of some musical instrument can bring an almost disproportionate delight to the player thereof. In this form of self-expression moods find voice, emotions an outlet. "It's what one feels and cannot say even when one sings, though that's the nearest way," wrote a poet of a man's love for his homeland. Shakespeare warned us against the man "fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils" because he had no music in him. Unquestionably music moves the soul and lifts the spirit.

Yet if more people are to play musical instruments and sing, they must have teachers. If they are to appreciate good music, they must have skilled professional players to point the difference between their own feeble efforts and an inspired performance.

At a time when many professional musicians have been thrown out of work by the increasing use of "canned music," the federation further complains that the profession of music is "overcrowded." Unless the plea for more amateur musicians subtly conceals a plan to provide teaching positions for members of the "overcrowded" profession, it would appear that the federation is rather losing sight of its own best interests.

WAR'S LESSON

Seventeen years ago today the breakfast tables of a nervous world were electrified by the news that the heir apparent to the Austro-Hungarian throne had been assassinated at Sarajevo. The events that followed are still familiar to those who read that momentous news.

Austria, failing to obtain satisfaction, declared war on Serbia. Czaristic Russia mobilized against Austria. Germany went to the support of her ally, against Russia; and France joined Russia against Germany. Great Britain went into the struggle to keep Germany away from the channel. After that, one by one other nations plunged into the greatest war of all time. The United States remained out of it for two and a half years—and then went in to make the world safe for democracy and put an end to war!

After seventeen years, what have we? A condition in Europe so menacing to the world that it is necessary for the United States to depart widely from its traditional policy of minding only its own business. The animosities that provoked the World war are as bitter today as they were on the eve of that upheaval. The clouds of fear and hatred that have darkened Europe's horizon in modern times have not lifted.

After more than four years of the most ghastly blood-letting in history it ought to have been possible for Europe to count the cost and mend its ways. The most competent observers of conditions on that continent agree that it has done nothing of the sort. A half dozen succession states have taken Woodrow Wilson's self-determination ideas seriously and are reveling in a revival of nationalism, whose political and economic effects are disturbing factors. The world is no safer for democracy today than it was before the thrones of Germany, Austria and Russia were emptied.

The lesson for the United States in the years that have followed the World war is that Europe estimates more highly American money than American advice. The disarmament conference to be held next year is likely again to make that plain.

"Peru Strike Fails to Materialize." Just another instance of the Peruvian bark being worse than its bite.

Apparently the Bible in France stops at the observation that "unto him that hath shall be given."

France will be a happy hunting ground for devotees of the "beaver game" as soon as all the gentlemen in political and social circles have grown square-cut beards, as they are reported to be doing in delicate compliment to President Doumer, who wears a gray beard cut in that fashion.

A small copper frying-pan, believed to be more than 5,000 years old, was unearthed in Mesopotamia and sent to the University of Pennsylvania's museum. Now if somebody could only find a tablet bearing the inscription "Go fry an egg" in its Mesopotamian equivalent.

Scotland Yard is now considering a plan for training women as detectives. Many a small boy thought his maternal parent a pretty good detective without need for training.

MY NEW YORK

—BY JAMES ASWELL—

NEW YORK. — That miniature golf course behind Roxy's movie mansion was a huge, glittering edifice last night. What a contrast to the uproarious midnight crowds of a year ago! They're paying plenty of ground rent, too, on that plot of Broadway's back yard. But as long as the night clubs find pickings thin, as long as there are no more crowds spilling out of hidden and lighted doorways to put away the tag-end of large evenings, that mid-town midlet links will languish. It is in the heart of the Mazda jungle, where liveried night club doormen prowl. Times when gentlemen in top hats with decolette ladies found golfing at 3 a. m. hugely diverting—and made the course hugely profitable. There are not many of these now. Those who appear pass on, apparently in a hurry to get home. Mark up another unplumbed psychological shift to the Broadway area!

Across the street some optimistic impresario has floated a new diversion—bowling until dawn! So far as I know, these are the only outdoor alleys in town, certainly the only alleys which thrive on the female trade. And here business is somewhat better than on the tees opposite. Bowling is more than subtly different from golf, anyway; there is a tendency to roll up your sleeves for it and to persevere. The trade is less gilded but steadier.

At the far end of the lot four girls — of the chorus, the department store counters or Park Avenue, you can't tell any more — were having a swell time. Near the entrance a quartet of young men were playing for money, daintily, with hirsute arms and great concentration. At one of the little summery green tables sat a morose man in a beaver hat, staring moodily at the lighted lozenge of the Empire State tower, away off. Probably a columnist. Or the proprietor of the golf establishment opposite.

"GROSSLY EXAGGERATED."

Dr. Arthur Torrance, reported down in the Congo River many weeks ago, to the tune of much newspaper lamentation, is back in New York to deny the report. Dr. Torrance worked out the link between the tsetse fly and sleeping sickness and is the author of "Tracking Down the Enemies of Man." He is plump, wears great black mustaches and likes to barge in on his friends in the middle of the night to engage them in scientific controversy.

THE BIG SHOTS

Fame fascinating me. I have the same aversion you have for people who like to link luminous names with their own; there are plenty like that around. But in a profession which constantly throws me into contact with great and near-great, I have contracted an enormous interest in the human beings behind the highly publicized labels which get them gaped at when they walk among their fellows. I believe every one of them—well, nearly every one—has some elemental spark which sets him off. I discount luck—beyond the fortune of possessing that spark.

And because I am endlessly excited by the glamor of celebrities seen, not through their reputations, but through their trivial, highly revelatory eccentricities, I revel in New York. It is a zoo where you can come close, with patience, to the most retiring zebra and discover how fast his stripes are. We are going to inspect plenty zebras in this column from now on.

ANOTHER TREK INTO THE DARK CONTINENT

"BASICALLY DEMOCRATIC" REMARK CANDID CRITICS OF HOOVER'S DEBT PLAN

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON. — Much political capital is being made out of Democratic acquiescence in President Hoover's moratorium plan. By Republicans it is being proclaimed as a Hoover masterpiece, which even Democrats are compelled to acknowledge. On their side, Democrats are taking credit for non-partisan patriotism in giving it their support.

In point of fact, candid critics agree that the program is essentially Democratic in principle, though proposed by a Republican president. That is to say, it takes into account the internationally evil effects of an unbalanced state of world finance and commerce. The ablest among Democratic economists, likewise, already are emphasizing the argument that such restrictions as the present American tariff law imposes are as disorganizing in this respect as are outstanding war reparations and indebtednesses.

Senator Hull of Tennessee and Representatives Huddleston of Alabama and Rainey of Illinois, for example, already are on record as holding the American tariff more vitally responsible for the depression than Germany's reparations' straits.

Thus the Democrats are not in a position to balk at the presidential suggestion, even were they inclined to do so, on partisan grounds. On the contrary, except for a few Democratic complaints that the Hoover proposal was made belatedly, most of the objections raised to it come from Progressive Republican lawmakers, such as Senator Schall of Minnesota and Representative La Guardia of New York — Republicans who have no scruples in criticizing the administration, but nevertheless upholders of G. O. P. high tariff principles.

Indeed, the moratorium concept is so far out of line with the policy established during the Harding and Coolidge administrations, and generally adhered to by regular Republicanism throughout the whole post-war era, that the question is being asked in some quarters whether Mr. Hoover has not disqualified himself for continued leadership of his party.

Of course, no affirmative answer to this query should be seriously considered. That his party will follow the president solidly is a foregone conclusion.

The fact, however, that it is being asked demonstrates how widely it is realized that he has shifted to a Democratic position as a base from which to deal adequately with the European crisis.

The situation in which politicians on both sides of the fence find themselves is exceedingly funny.

Illustratively, the intensely stand pat Senator Smoot, than whom as a member of the World war foreign debt commission which framed the existing bargain, there was not a more resolute champion of full repayments in the country, is now placed in the attitude of deserting all his American go-it-alone convictions to trumpet the advantages of international co-operation.

On the opposite hand, Democrats such as Senator Harrison of Mississippi, although gravely alarmed at the prospect that President Hoover will win national acclaim for restoring prosperity—should the moratorium result thusly, at least for the term of the coming political campaign—cannot attack the plan without stultifying all their own previous reasoning, hence are forced to endorse and pledge it their heartiest support, making a virtue out of necessity.

To be sure, it is the consensus in Washington that the presidential course will prove at the next session of congress seriously to have weakened the hand of the Hawley-Smoot tariff's defenders, but this will not necessarily embarrass Mr. Hoover, who reputedly never did

A SUMMER THUNDER STORM IN THE COUNTRY

By ARTHUR DeV. CARPENTER

A hot, humid afternoon; air unusually quiet all day, with occasional faint breeze from the south; lofty cirrus (hair-like) clouds develop, many of them becoming cirro-cumulus (piled up) clouds. Toward middle afternoon these cirro-cumulus clouds convert into cumulonimbus (rain) clouds. Threatening thunder grows in the west; in all hours time blackness gathers; cool wind blows violently toward you from front of the angry, on-rushing elements; dust flies; tree-tops whip over; big patters of rain—or perhaps hail—come down; you are now under the violent squal cloud; the storm front sweeps over; powerful flash, crash and downpour mingle; storm journeys on; thunder grows remote; nature refreshed; a rain-bow; solo of timid thrush resounds from thicket.

Veal Birds Potatoes

Lettuce Salad with Radishes and Green Onions

Cherry Meringue Pie

Tea or Coffee

Today's Recipes

Veal Birds—Six thin slices bacon, two thin slices veal steak, one-half pound pork sausage, one apple chopped with tablespoon sugar.

one-half green pepper, chopped; one cup bread crumbs, two stalks celery, chopped; one tablespoon onion juice, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper. Cut veal in six pieces, flatten with cleaver and dredge with flour, salt and pepper.

Mix dressing of sausage, bread crumbs, apples, peppers, celery, onion juice and salt and pepper. Divide mixture into six parts; roll into oblong shapes, place on veal slices and roll veal around stuffing, fastening together with toothpicks.

Then roll a strip of bacon around the center of each bird, again fastening with toothpicks. Place the birds in a roaster and put in very hot oven, leaving lid to roaster off and allow to brown for 30 minutes.

Then reduce heat to slow oven. Stir three tablespoons of flour into grease in bottom of roaster, add three cups boiling milk or water, put lid into place and cook in slow oven for one hour. Parboil the potatoes, add one cup boiling water to gravy in roaster; put potatoes around veal and cook until tender.

Cherry Meringue Pie.—Three cups soft red cherries pitted, two eggs yolks, one and one-half cups sugar, two tablespoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat eggs and sugar together and mix with other ingredients. Place in pan lined with pie crust and bake in moderate oven until done. Cover with meringue made of whites of eggs and two tablespoons pulverized sugar. Brown fifteen minutes in slow oven. Can use cherries may be used, without juice.

Water Sport Is Good Reducer

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Swimming is probably the best, all-round exercise. We do not always realize this because the water takes up the extra heat generated in swimming and one does not feel so hot after a good swim. The water also has an effect on the skin—a stimulating effect which counteracts the sense of fatigue felt after other sports. Swimming will increase the heat of the body 12 times over the amount produced when sitting still. Of course, running will do more than that in the same length of time, but swimming is, I believe, a better exercise. In the first place, it exercises more muscles than running, involving the arm and shoulder muscles into play better. Then it does not throw such a burden suddenly on the heart and, therefore, you can actually exert more while swimming than while running.

There is nothing quite so good for the reduction of weight as swimming. Most professional swimmers, especially long distance swimmers, look overweight, but that is because they have to have heavy bones and muscles rather than actual fat. Exercise, especially such vigorous exercise as swimming, requires a great deal of extra energy. Muscles are simply machines for converting potential energy into actual energy. Just as does a gasoline engine. The potential energy is furnished to the gasoline engine in the form of gasoline; to convert it into actual energy it is combusted. The potential energy that animal muscles use is sugar. The simpler the form the sugar is in, the more rapidly and completely it will be converted into actual energy. Thus orange juice, which contains as simple a sugar as glucose, is a good antidote for fatigue during athletics.

If you have ever watched a hummingbird poised in mid-air you must have marveled at the amount of energy its muscles can convert rapidly in order to make contractions so rapidly. It does so by using a simple sugar, honey or nectar, from flowers. It is the same chemical mechanism which makes a bee's wings move so rapidly. Honey was for a long time the principal form of sugar that human beings had. That was before the days of the beet sugar industry, and then bee cultivation was one of the important parts of agriculture.

Fatigue of muscles has been shown by the researches of Professor A. V. Hill to be, due entirely to lack of oxygen in a muscle. It used to be ascribed to a theoretical fatigue poison, but Professor Hill demonstrated that if you could get oxygen to a muscle in sufficient quantities it will continue to contract with maximum strength indefinitely. The only reason the muscles in the body become fatigued is that the heart is not able to continue to pump enough oxygen to them.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendingen can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendingen in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

—By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: I have been going with my boy friend for about a year, although I go out with other young men.

"I have known since I met him that he drank, but the fact had never been revealed to my parents until the other day. My parents object to my going with him because of his drinking, as they do not approve of it.

"He never drinks while he is with a girl and he always treats me very nice. He is gradually breaking his habit, but nevertheless he drinks. My parents have forbidden him to come to the house. What shall I do?

Your boy friend is the one that should take action. Betsy—that is, if he values your friendship. He should ask your parents for a man-to-man talk in which he should ask them to help him break the habit.

If he can control his drinking while he is with girls, he can surely break off altogether for the sake of a certain girl—if he really cares. I know it is hard for young men to be total abstainers. It is hard for both men and women to say frankly that they do not drink. The inference of one's acquaintances who go always is that one is a prude and a flat tire.

It takes more courage to say no when asked to drink than it ever did, because nowadays possession of liquor is prohibited by law. We get a thrill out of the act of breaking the law besides the always alluring sensation of doing something a little devilish which always accompanied indulging in intoxicating liquors.

There are, of course, undoubtedly, millions of people in this and other lands, who have drunk wine, or even stronger drinks all their lives and never even approached drunkenness, but it is useless to say that a few drinks are as harmless as taking coffee or tea, which are both stimulating. If you drink too much tea or coffee you may get sick, never beasty.

The safest course, as well as the most courageous, is to abstain entirely in these days of automobiles.

airplanes and other machines that need a clear eye and a steady hand. Put it up to the boy friend to win the right to your friendship.

Concerned: Treat your boy friend as usual if he asks for more dates. Don't let him think for a moment that you are jealous. That is the only thing you can do to "win" him from the other girl.

"Dear Virginia Lee: There is something wrong about smoking. No one should smoke, including men. I loathe to see girls smoke. Here are a few reasons why tobacco ruins beauty: It stupefies all the senses; makes people nervous and unattractive; they do not smell good; they are not clean; they are not healthy. What man likes to see a girl smoke? Please publish.

"From A Boy Beauty Lover." All right, Son. Always glad to get people to express their views. If all you boys tell the girls you don't like them to smoke, I bet they'll stop after awhile. Do it quietly and tolerantly, though, no bluster or nagging or the girls will become rebels—just as you do when your elders—or girls—demand that you give up one of your cherished privileges. They will smoke all the more in that case, just to show you. Or else they'll be martyrs and do it on the sly.

Flaming Youth: Take this tip from me, old dear. Don't phone the boy again. Let him do the phoning and inviting. Believe me, you will stand higher with him if you do than if you run after him: I did not have room to print your letter.

Lonesome Girlie: Why don't you start making up with the girl friend by saying, "Hello" when you see her? If she responds to that why, say something more. She probably will be as glad to make up as you are. If you don't like to do that, write her and ask her if she isn't ready to forgive and forget. Tell her you are, and say you are sorry for your part in the quarrel.

Soft Flush On Cheeks Up-To-Date

—By GLADYS GLAD—

Several seasons ago, smart European women began to dispense with the use of rouge entirely, in order to achieve an appearance of pale sophistication. They powdered their faces heavily, and accentuated their lips with brilliant lipstick, but left their cheeks colorless. And although the effect was indeed striking and attractive in some cases, it was, in the majority of instances, a most unflattering practice.

It was recently predicted that this season, women were once again to taboo the rouge out. But such I am glad to report, is not to be the case. Colorless cheeks are not to be at all fashionable this season. It's not an appearance of bored sophistication that the up-to-the-minute gal is now trying to achieve, but rather one of youthful freshness.

However, although rosy cheeks are to be in vogue, we're not to go in for the hectic high-temperature effect that was stylish at the end of the war. We must tone down our cheek coloring with plenty of powder. The unnaturally bright red flush of post-war days, and the sophisticated pallor have both been succeeded by a soft rosy glow that is well shaded with powder.

I have always advised that, in making up the face, a light film of powder be applied over the rouged cheeks. For in my opinion, a more natural effect can be obtained in this manner. The natural coloring in the cheeks is merely the red hue of the blood seen through a transparent layer of skin. It is only logical, therefore, that when applying our make-up, we follow nature's plan, and permit our rouge to be viewed only through a transparent layer of powder.

If you use a paste rouge, your cheek coloring should be applied, first. Then a layer of powder should be spread evenly over the entire face, and the excess removed with the tips of the fingers or a powder blending brush. If you use a dry rouge, first powder your entire face smoothly. Then blend the rouge over your cheeks, and apply a final, layer of powder, toning down the entire makeup with the powder blending brush or your fingertips. I find that dry rouge can be blended far more easily and artistically if a basic layer of powder is first applied to the cheeks.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Hands Betty: I know nothing of a detrimental nature about the powder you mention. Scrub your hands with a nail brush to remove the dead skin, and grease them well each night. This procedure should keep the skin soft and smooth.

Skin Bleach Hazel: The bleach you refer to is composed of two ounces of rose-water, one ounce of glycerine, and four ounces of lactic acid. Apply a bit of cold cream after its use to counteract any drying effects.

Superfluous Hair Susie A. and B.: I know nothing detrimental about the preparation you name. However, depilatories usually remove hair only temporarily. You may bleach the hair on your legs, or use a good depilatory as you prefer.

The Lang Chevrolet Co. softball team, 1930 city champions, found itself in a strange position Tuesday. After occupying first place in the National League continuously since the current season began, the champions have slipped to second place and have been succeeded temporarily by the Downtowners.

Refusing to acknowledge defeat, even after the Chevrolet twice came from behind, once to tie the score and again to take the lead in the eighth inning, the Downtowners won out in the ninth inning Monday night with a scoring burst of almost unprecedented proportions.

They did not quit until nine runs had crossed the plate. The fatigued revived memories of two years ago when the D. T. C. Club was itself the victim of a scoring onslaught of identical size. The old Harness Cigars, in the opening round of a game with the Downtowners a couple of years ago, also counted nine runs before the third out was made.

The Downtowners have now won six games in a row, barring a tie game played with the Graham Pains. Their last defeat occurred May 25 when Langs won the first half of a double-header, 2 to 1, in ten innings. The Downtowners won the second game, 2 to 0, to obtain an even distribution of the evening's spoils, and they have not lost a game since, although having close calls about every week.

Langs and the Downtowners played with a new and more lively ball Monday night and this perhaps accounts for the fact that the hitting during the contest was unusually vicious. The ball was of a different type than local softball teams have been accustomed to using this season. It was an inside seam sphere like the others, but was somewhat smaller, lighter and held its shape much better.

The umpires it develops: were merely enforcing a new ground rule, perhaps adopted with the utmost secrecy, when they sent Carlton Lunsford back to third base after he had jogged around the bases on his apparent home run to the fence in deep center field in the fourth inning. The ball rolled under the fence and when this happens the batter is hereafter entitled to only three bases, we learn. The softball commission recently had a fringe of tall grass along the bottom of the fence clipped, and the clipping process exposed innumerable apertures through which balls are liable to roll at times. This was the first time there had been an occasion to enforce the regulation and few persons were familiar with what it was all about. To be consistent, it would seem a similar ground rule should apply to balls hit into left field when they roll under automobiles parked far out in this territory.

JAMESTOWN BOOKS DAYTON TRAMPS

The Jamestown Independents have booked a home game for next Sunday with the Springfield Tramps, and are also negotiating for a game to be played at Jamestown Saturday afternoon as a Fourth of July attraction. The Independents lost to Midland City by a score of 2 to 1 last Sunday, five errors contributing to the defeat. Each team made six hits. A home run by Jacobs, catcher, in the seventh inning, enabled Jamestown to avoid being blanked. Score by innings: Midland City 0 1 1 0 0 0 0—2; Jamestown 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1.

HERE ARE ANSWERS TO ALL THIS TALK ABOUT BIG BOXING BOUT

By BILL CORUM
International News Service Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, July 1.—Mr. Fan—Are you going to answer without reservation any question I ask you about the fight between Max Schmeling and Bill Stribling in Cleveland's new municipal stadium next Friday night?

Corum—If I can.
Q.—What is the distance?
A.—Fifteen rounds to a decision.
Q.—What is at stake?
A.—The heavyweight championship of the world, the New York State Boxing Commission to the contrary notwithstanding.

Q.—Will it be honest?
A.—Yes.
Q.—You mean there has been and will be no agreement between the fighters and their managers?
A.—None, except that if Stribling wins the title a man connected with the management of Schmeling and a Chicago matchmaker are to receive 27½ per cent of his earnings as champion.

Q.—Is that honest?
A.—Strictly speaking, it is honest enough, but it is a bad practice in boxing. It is better business than it is sportsmanship, as it puts somebody in a position of riding two horses in the same race. However, it is similar to the agreement whereby Tunney was to receive $100,000 from Tom Heeney if Heeney won the title. Managers with champions use it to protect themselves, and to make the title yield every possible dollar.

Q.—What about the Cleveland stadium as a fight arena?
A.—It will offer the finest setting any big fight ever had.
Q.—Why will it be better than the Yankee stadium or Soldier Field, Chicago?
A.—Because anybody who buys a ticket at any price will be able to see. The ringside will all be in Cleveland. Some of Rickard's

DIVIDEND RATES

Eleven years since, when the purchasing power of the dollar was rapidly falling, this and a number of other associations advanced the dividend rate to 6% to partly compensate for this loss in purchasing power. All associations soon followed and that rate has remained until the present year.

Now that the value of the dollar is greatly increased the associations of this city have deemed it fair and just to reduce the rate to 5% and this has been done. Five dollars will now buy more than would six dollars in the period of eleven years. This, we believe, leaves no room for complaint.

Add to this sustained purchasing power the advantage of an investment which we can now make taxfree to the depositor, and which is secure, and we believe that you will agree that we offer an ideal investment for your funds. Good dividends have been earned by this association for fifty-six years, and our deposits have always been worth their full face.

The Theater

Switching from the comedy roles that have marked his last few films, Robert Montgomery is scheduled for a dramatic part in "Family Affair," his next starring vehicle. The decision on the story is particularly satisfying to Montgomery, who welcomes the chance to "chew some scenery," as he puts it. And if the story remains as it was outlined he will have a strong role climaxed by him dying in the last reel.

Whether the unhappy ending will be changed is not known, but Bob is all for it, contending that While executives and writers were searching for stories or an idea for Pola Negri's first talkie, Thilde Forster, an unobtrusive German girl and a novice in the picture game, submitted the one that has been selected. Miss Forster arrived in Hollywood three weeks ago for a vacation. When she heard they were looking for a story for Pola she sat down and wrote one which she titled "A Woman Commands." She has apparently forgotten the vacation, as she has completed another story that Paramount is considering for Marlene Dietrich.

A big squad of would-be baseball players representing Captain R. L. Gowdy's "fats" and Capt. M. J. Bobb's "leaves" is warming up for the great contest Fourth of July morning.

It is something entirely different for him. The newly-made star is not becoming "arty" or inferring that Metro has not done right by him. It is only that he does not want to become "typed" in the light roles that have fallen his way lately.

"Family Affair" is a story of the love and antagonism between two brothers. It is being prepared for the screen by Fred Butler and Sylvia Thalberg. Another feature that appeals to Montgomery is that it will not be necessary for him to shave or wear make-up throughout the film. This will probably irk the feminine contingency who constitute the star's fans.

The chance of a lifetime has come to Robert Young, who has been given his first major assignment in a motion picture to play the male lead in "Boarding School." His playing of a small part in "Lullaby," won him the role.

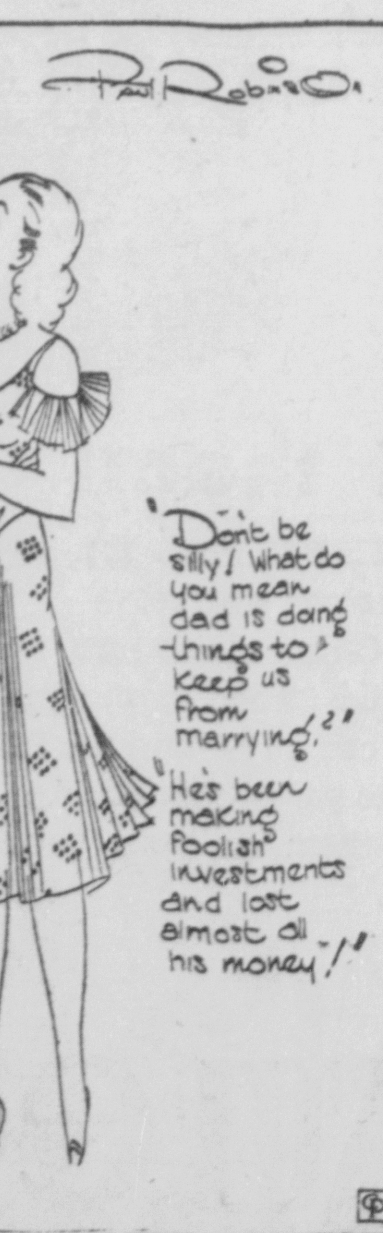

Young, although born in Seattle, is more or less a Hollywood boy as he attended high school there and is a product of the Pasadena Community Players. He is to play opposite Madge Evans, who has one of the three important girl roles in the film. Anita Page and Dorothy Jordan play the other two parts.

Another Hollywood marriage has gone one the rocks. Finding it impossible to go on, diminutive Dorothy Lee and her husband, James Fidler, publicity agent, have decided to call it quits. Following

FORMER CHICAGO PROSECUTOR TO LECTURE ON GANGLAND HERE

One of the outstanding features of Chautauqua week here will be the report of the house magazine of the New York Rotary Club, when the members listened to this man snapping facts from the side of his mouth. Incisive, caustic at times, startling always, and constructive. It is of Mr. Hansen that the assistant secretary of Lions International writes, "An absolutely incorruptible man, fearless, his address should be heard by every club, by every audience." For sometime, Mr. Hansen, when he was special "clean-up" investigator in Chicago, penetrated the forbidden haunts of Chicago, learning the gangs' ways of evading the law. His life threatened a number of times, and "taken for a ride once." Mr. Hansen is said to be a dynamic speaker, and the audiences that have heard him while on tour are reported to have been held spell bound by the interesting message of this man who knows "gangs and gangland."

The "big brown top" will arrive in the city Wednesday afternoon, and will be erected on the old school lot. According to reports, the ticket sale looks to be one of the best in years, and everything is in readiness for a gala opening Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mosquitoes Inject Poisonous Thinning Fluid Into Blood!

Cause of Horrible
Blood Diseases
Now Known

Most people think the pain and itch of a mosquito bite is due to irritation of the "bite" itself. This is far from the truth, as science shows. When the mosquito sinks her stinger thru your skin to drink, she first must inject a fluid from her serum sac to thin your blood.

This thinning fluid is poisonous and often alive with the germs of malignant diseases, taken up from unhealthy people the mosquito has bitten before going to you. As this is "direct transmission" of disease germs into the blood it constitutes a terrible danger. You shudder when an awful blood disease is mentioned. Shudder when you see a mosquito and lose no time in reaching for your FLY-TOX gun and ending the mosquito's life, quickly.

FLY-TOX is proven to be the surest, quickest-killing household spray made. It is sure death to the FEARFUL—Fly, Mosquito, Roach, Bed Bug, Ant, Flea, Moth. Insist on FLY-TOX at your drug store or grocery.

WHEAT CUTTING IS STARTED IN COUNTY

A bumper crop is expected to be harvested throughout Greene County despite reports that wheat was beaten to the ground in many sections and considerable damage was entailed by recent wind and rainstorms.

Farmers generally began to cut wheat this week, a process interrupted Monday by rain but renewed Tuesday.

With wheat cutting at its present stage, the opinion is being ad-
